

Institute of Islamic Theology

»Prophetology in Modern Muslim Thought. Conceptions in the Field of Islamic Theology and Religious Education«

Symposium • 08.12.2020 • 2:00 PM – 5:30 PM

This workshop covers different perspectives and conceptions on Prophetology in modern Muslim thought, ranging from hagiographic aspects related to the person of the prophet Muhammad to aspects of Islamic Religious Education and Law as well as recent academic issues.

Program:

Contemporary Discourses on the Prophet's Role. Muhammad b. Alawi al-Maliki (d. 2004) in Defense of the Prophet in Saudi Arabia, Prof. Dr. Mohammad Gharaibeh (BIIT Berlin)

Towards a Muhammadology – Prophecy and the Problem of Situating Islamic Theology in the European Scientific Landscape, Ramzi Ghandour (PhD-student, IIT Osnabrück)

Theological Impulses from Hadith Studies for an Experience-oriented Prophetology in Islamic Education, Jun.-Prof. Dr. Ruggero Vimercati Sanseverino (ZIT Tübingen)

Modern Legal Discussion about the Capacities of the Prophet Muḥammad and the Normativity of Hadiths and its Impact on the Idea of 'iṣmat an-nabīy, Jasser Abou Archid (IIT Osnabrück)

The Tafsir of the Verse 4/64: Exegetical Discussions about the Religious Topography of Medina, Dr. Martin Kellner (IIT Osnabrück)

»Before the King«: The Prophet Muḥammad as Universal Mediator and its Royal Attributes of Intercession (maqām maḥmūd, liwā' al-ḥamd, ḥawḍ al-kawthar) in Islamic Literature, Dr. Luca Patrizi (IAIS Exeter/GB)

Registration (the conference will be held via zoom):

Please send an email to: martin.kellner@uni-osnabrueck.de

Gefördert durch:

www.iit.uni-osnabrueck.de